Abstract

The present invention concerns new conjugates, processes for their production as well as the use of these conjugates as antigens in immunological detection methods or for DNA diagnostics.